

An Enigma

by Edgar Allan Poe

Edgar Allan Poe wrote several poems that contained a secret. An Enigma is one of those poems. Enigma means puzzle or mystery. There is a woman's name hidden in the text. To find her name, use the first letter of the first line, the second letter of the second line, the third letter of the third line, and so on.

An Enigma

“Seldom we find,” says Solomon Don Duncce,
“Half an idea in the profoundest sonnet.
Through all the flimsy things we see at once
As easily as through a Naples bonnet—
Trash of all trash!—how can a lady don it?
Yet heavier far than your Petrarchan stuff—
Owl-downy nonsense that the faintest puff
Twirls into trunk-paper the while you con it.”
And, veritably, Sol is right enough.
The general tuckermanities are arrant
Bubbles—ephemeral and so transparent—
But this is, now—you may depend upon it—
Stable, opaque, immortal—all by dint
Of the dear names that lie concealed within’t.

Questions

1. What is the woman's name that is concealed in the poem?
2. What is the rhyme scheme of the poem?
3. Write four lines of prose that spell out a word as Poe did here.