POETRY TYPES: Identifying Free Verse

Directions:

Put a check mark next to the lines that would most likely be found in a free verse poem.

- The river flows calmly, reflecting the sky.
Time stands still in the quiet of the night.
- Shadows dance on the wall,
like ghosts in the moonlight.
- A melody lingers in the air,
haunting and sweet.
- Mountains rise majestically against the horizon.
Raindrops patter softly on the windowpane.
- A sigh escapes her lips, whining with each heart break.
She wonders if the love was real or fake.
- The city bustles with life, a symphony of sounds.
Buzz! Honk! Whizz! Bang! A taxi honks loudly.
- Colors burst forth in a riot of hues,
painting the world with different blues.
- Autumn leaves fall gently, whispering secrets of change.
Crisp air fills the lungs, hinting at winter's approach.
- Fireflies flicker like tiny stars, illuminating the night.
Soft laughter fills the twilight sky, and wings flutter flight.
